STANDING WITH SMALL FARMERS

The chocolate industry has become increasingly consolidated by a few multi-national corporations while child labor remains a terrible problem in the industry.

Equal Exchange proudly sources organic cacao and sugar from small farmers in the Dominican Republic, Peru, Togo, and Paraguay, and has built an alternative model that works for farmers, consumers and the planet we all share. This model helps farmers be owners of their businesses, have economic control over their lives, as well as access to trainings and processing equipment. All of which helps them to invest in their communities through schools, women's programs, clean drinking wells, and other social developments projects.
