Through long-term trade partnerships with farmers Equal Exchange has proven that alternative trade works for farmers, consumers, and the planet we share. And yet, their mission is more threatened today than ever before. Corporate consolidation of the food system has reduced the power of farmers and consumers alike. Climate change is wreaking havoc on farmers. A world-wide pandemic has disrupted supply chains. In order to withstand these mounting pressures, you can act in solidarity by purchasing a collection of products from small-farmer cooperatives around the world.
